Preface

To respond to frequent requests for agency test methods, Region 1 Library staff developed this methods index as a tool to help locate copies of them. Confirming that there was no one volume containing all agency methods and no comprehensive list of them, the project commenced and in 1988 the first printed Index to EPA Test Methods was published as EPA 901/3-88-001. It has been updated periodically to reflect new procedures and revoked methods and the current edition includes about 1600 method references. The index includes only EPA methods and its primary goal remains as a reference tool to identify a source from which the actual method can be obtained, either free or for a fee.

Originally sources were primarily print documents, but in the mid 1990's electronic versions of EPA air methods began to appear on bulletin board systems (BBS) and then some water methods on floppy disks. In the late 1990's, EPA issued two compendium of methods on CD ROM for waste and for water. Internet access was more recent and commenced with the air methods and in 1998 the entire SW-846 compendium was placed on the web. In 1999 the EPA New England Region 1 Library website first offered the Index in Adobe Acrobat format for easy distribution. In 2002, the revamped web version of EMMI appeared as National Environmental Methods Index (NEMI) offering summary information about water methods from EPA and other organizations, with links to full text of those from EPA.

The Index to EPA Test Methods is an ever changing product and your feedback helps keep it current and useful. Please contact me with your comments, questions and contributions.

Key to Obtaining Source Documents

Introduction

Q What are test methods?

A Test methods are approved procedures for measuring the presence and concentration of physical and chemical pollutants; evaluating properties, such as toxic properties, of chemical substances; or measuring the effects of substances under various conditions.

Q Why an index?

A This Index was developed to improve access to US EPA test methods. It is not an official EPA publication nor does inclusion or exclusion of methods indicate EPA approval or disapproval of any method. The most recent version can be downloaded from the EPA New England Region 1 Library website www.epa.gov/ne/oarm/index.html

Q What information is included?

A This Adobe Acrobat version contains the following pieces of information:

- C Method Number -- the official method number or a compiler assigned number if un-numbered
Examples: 0330.1 or 3810 or TO-15 or 8080A or SAMPLIN
- C Chemical or Method Description -- chemical, analyte, chemical group or name of protocol. If you don't find one you want, try a broader term e.g., metals for mercury or pesticides for diquat
Examples: asbestos or absorption or Maneb or larval survival or mercury
- C Reference source of where to get the method by one of four categories:
 - EPA Report # EPA report number
Examples: 600/4-82-029 or SW-846 Ch 3.3
 - 40 CFR Part Title 40 of the Code of Federal Regulations part numbers
Examples: 136 App A = 40 CFR 136 Appendix A
 - Region 1 # EPA Region 1 Library local call number
Examples: 01A0006125a or 01A0006706
 - Electronic Version -- abbreviated reference to an electronic version if available
Examples: www or ttn/emc or NEMI; full web address provided in Source List
CD indicates included in the Water Methods CD ROM (EPA 821/C-99-004)
- Date Issued date method was issued or published
Examples: 09/25/1996 or / / / (date unknown)

Q Where are the methods?

A This compilation is only an index, not a collection of actual methods. The Sources for EPA Test Methods, following the two indexes, indicates how to obtain print or electronic copies of the methods listed. If you are using the Adobe version while connected to the internet, you'll find over 75 % of the sources listed have live weblinks to the actual method.

Q Why are there multiple entries for some method numbers?

A This was done intentionally to accommodate multiple substances determined by a single method. Some numbers appear to have been used for more than one media and method, and no attempt was made to reconcile these apparent discrepancies. A look at the source list should let you know for what general purpose the method was intended (wastewater, soil, air, or multi-media).

Q What if I can't find a method I need?

A In some cases individual substances are listed; in others a family of substances is listed under one name. For example, look for related or broader terms such as metals rather than mercury or pesticides as well as a specific one such as dursban. EPA does not have a test method for all chemicals, only those which it in some way regulates. You are welcome to contact the Region 1 Library to inquire about methods not found in the index and for suggestions on where else to look. In many cases, we will be able to email the method to you or direct you to a website or someone who can assist you.
