To our Customers and Suppliers,

In order for Edward C Whitney & Son Inc. to continue to conform with all State and Federal Regulations, we must at this time get from all our customers a Material Safety Data Sheet (MSD), (OSHA Form 20), and or letter of exemption for Mass. Department Public Health on each hazardous substance, as provided by the substance's manufacturer.

This new Massachusetts Right to Know Law goes into effect September 26, 1984, it covers approximately 2000 hazardous substances.

In most cases the drums we pick up are uniform as far as materials they carried. In the event you should give us a drum with a different material we would require a (MSD) for that material.

This is a law, we all must comply, sincere cooperation is a must to eliminate confusion and possible violation of this law.

Edward C Whitney & Son Inc. will continue to comply with all State and Federal Laws and regulations so that we may serve our customers properly.

Thank you for your cooperation on this matter.

Very truly yours,

Ed Whitney

Dear Customer,

Enclosed are lists of Acute Hazardous Materials (Federal), which we distributed to you at an earlier date along with a copy concerning "empty" drums and how we would and would not except them.

We now have an additional list (enclosed) that has been put out by the State of Massachusetts, the Priority Pollutants List. This list has additional materials that should be treated the same as the Federal Acute Hazardous list, and Triple Rinsed and accompanied by a bill of lading before shipping to a drum reconditioner.

We feel that you as the emptier and or (the provider of that drum to a reconditioner, in the event of a drum dealer) should be responsible for providing proper documents when selling a drum to the reconditioner. Our drivers are schooled on these laws but can not be expected to do your work for you. You must insure that drums be properly prepared for shipment.

As in the past your cooperation is needed to keep us all in compliance with the rules and regulations.

And as in the past your business is sincerely appreciated. We will work with you in any way to help you comply, and look forward to serving you in the future.

Very truly yours,

The Entire Staff of E.C. Whitney & Son

REFERENCE YOUR PURCHASE ORDER # WI-85530

Dear Sir/Mme:

Please note that Item #3 on your above referenced purchase order should be revised to reflect the following:

"one inch of waste material is an overriding constraint and may remain in an empty container only if it cannot be removed by normal means. The rationale for this provision is that there are certain tars and other extremely viscous materials that will remain in the container even after the container is emptied by normal means."
[Federal Regulations, Volume 47, No. 160, August 18, 1982, p. 36093.]

I have enclosed a photocopy of a letter issuing from the Law Offices of Lawrence W. Bierlein, the general counsel for the National Drum and Barrel Association [NABADA] for your reference. This letter explains the restrictions governing the 1" rule which has been subject to a great deal of misinterpretation in the past. You may wish to see that those persons who handle your empty containers receive a photocopy as well.

All drums which we pick up from Olin Corporation will be required to conform with the NABADA guidelines for empty containers, and the enclosed NABADA interpretation of the 1" Drum Rule.

Sincerely,

Edward C. Whitney, Jr.

IMPORTANT BULLETIN

To: Customers and Suppliers

From: Edward C Whitney Jr.

I am sure you are aware that November 19, 1980, was a critical date with respect to the disposal of hazardous waste in the United States. As of that date, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Regulations went into effect in accordance with the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA). In Massachusetts, the date's arrival was less dramatic because we have already had a similar set of State Regulations in effect since the beginning of the year. But there are some crucial aspects of RCRA that it is most important for us all to be aware of because they affect the future of our business and of our good business relationship.

Enclosed are copies of some documents and regulations that should be part of your RCRA file. You may want to order your own copy of the code of Federal Regulations (CFR) #40 Protection of Environment parts 100 to 399 and also CFR #49 Transportation, parts 1 and 2 (revised as of 7/1/82). Below we have summarized in a series of points what we believe are the most significant rules and consequences of RCRA as they apply to the use, sale, disposal, transportation, and recycling of 55 Gallon steel containers.

1. An EMPTY DRUM (see enclosures) as defined by the EPA is a drum which has been drained by pouring, pumping, or aspirating of flowable residues and then contains no more than one inch of non-removable residue.
2. An EMPTY DRUM that is shipped to or picked up by a drum reconitioner for the purpose of recycling and reuse is not a hazardous waste and does not need to be manifested or reported as such.
3. Edward C Whitney & Son Inc. is a licensed hazardous waste transporter. We have to comply with all regulations to properly transport this material. We WILL NOT put this license in jeopardy by excepting any non-empty drums on any of our trucks.

4. Edward C Whitney & Son Inc. regularly generates waste and it accumulates the small residues of many thousands of drums. When we generate quantities of waste, we prepare them for shipment and forward them to secured landfills in accordance with RCRA Regulations.

We want you to understand the legalities of RCRA because it will affect our operating procedures. Although in the past we may have occasionally picked up or received drums that were not empty and have disposed of that excess, we cannot now do so. We cannot legally do so even if the emptier were to pay us the approximate $3. per gallon current cost of legal handling and disposal of hazardous waste.

Our truck drivers and yard receivers have been instructed not to accept anything but EMPTY DRUMS, and we hope that you will understand our legal liability in enforcing such a policy. We are confident that the insistence on EMPTY DRUMS will, in the long run, represent an enormous savings for the individual company and for the nation. Through the years, we have seen millions of gallons of residue come to us because the trouble was not taken to drain or pump those last few gallons of valuable raw material from a drum. That was a practice that none of us can any longer afford, legally or financially, and together we must make our operating practices tighter.

New legislation has changes the 1" of residue rule, (see enclosure) due to the pressure being put on barrel dealers by the DEQE we will not accept the 1" ruling and must insist all drums be drained by pouring, pumping, or aspirating of flowable residues and then contain only non-removable residue.

If there are any questions about this Bulletin or any of its enclosures, please don't hesitate to call me.

Mr. John Masterman
Department of Health Services
State of California
714/744 P Street
Sacramento, California 95814

Dear Mr. Masterman:

I was pleased to have the opportunity to meet you at the Berkley workshop to discuss the proposed DHS regulations on recycling of drums. As I mentioned at that time, I serve as general counsel to the National Barrel & Drum Association (NABADA) in Washington, D.C. NABADA represents the majority of drum reconditioners throughout North America, as well as in several other countries in the world. From our perspective representing reconditioners not only in California, but in adjoining States and elsewhere in the country where your new rules might serve as a model for State regulation, we are deeply concerned with certain aspects of the proposed regulations. We appreciate the opportunity to offer our comments on those proposals.

One of the rationales offered for these proposals is the encouragement of drum recycling. Obviously, this is a rationale we endorse. The proposals are phrased as an exemption from hazardous Accordingly, we examined the proposed rules not only from the standpoint of whether they are needed for the protection of the environment, but also from their anticipated cost impact as that would affect the continued functioning of our industry. From both perspectives many of the proposed rules are unjustified.

We acknowledge at the outset that there have been environmental abuses in every industry, including ours. We submit, however, that effective enforcement of existing laws would be sufficient to deter such activities. Virtually every drum recycling facility is the generator of hazardous waste, and thus is within the direct regulatory control of the DHS and the U.S. EPA. Much of what the DHS appears interested in accomplishing could be done through specific requirements applied to these facilities as generators. Please reconsider whether the conditions imposed under the proposed exemption truly are necessary in light of existing State and federal laws on air pollution, water pollution, solid waste management, hazardous waste management, and Superfund hazardous substance management.

Page 14 of the draft contains a declaration that the proposed requirements will have no fiscal impact on the reconditioning industry. In our experience with regulatory requirements elsewhere in the country, we believe implementation of the proposed requirements would bring about a major change in the regulatory status quo in California, and would have a major financial impact upon the affected businesses.

tioners throughout the country, and have participated in this kind of regulatory discussion in many States.

Most industrial States have considered specific rules for the reconditioning industry.

At the outset I should note that, if adopted, the rules you have proposed would be unique in the country -- for although many States have considered or actually proposed specific rules for drum reconditioning, none has adopted them.

For the sake of the record, I would like to discuss the so-called "one-inch" rule followed in all of the other States, although the term "one-inch" is misleading. Emptied packaging is not regulated as a hazardous waste in other jurisdictions. It was never regulated under the national regulations, as we confirmed in correspondence with EPA immediately after issuance of the original rules in May of 1980. What was unclear in those rules was how one defined the term "empty," and this clarifying definition was adopted as a separate regulation in 40 CFR 261.7. The lack of specific regulations addressing empty containers was based upon a specific finding that the containers are not hazardous -- it was not designed in any sense to encourage recycling. As discussed more thoroughly below, the one-inch rule does encourage emptying, however.

It is critical to note that under the 261.7 definition, the drum must be as thoroughly emptied as possible by normal means, with assure you from my conversations with regulators and with members of our industry across the country, this incentive works, and container residues since 1980 have been reduced dramatically.

The current emptied container rule followed in all other States works to bring about thorough emptying of drums. Under the proposed DHS rules, however, there is too little difference between the handling of a hazardous waste and the handling of a thoroughly emptied drum. If you adopt the proposed rules, you will lose the proven benefit of the national empty container rule, thus losing the significant incentive to empty the drum that the national rule represents. As we perceive the issue, in an endeavor to be more stringent in dealing with emptied drums, the DHS will be removing the most successful impetus to empty containers that has been found, and that now is working elsewhere in the country. Please carefully consider the impact of this action, not just on our industry, but on the environment as a whole.

In addition to these general matters, let me offer the following comments on specific provisions of the proposal:

a. Section 66740(c) would have the transporter "provide adequate separation for incompatible contaminated containers." Under the regulations of the U.S. Department of Transportation (as adopted by the California Highway Patrol), any drum containing a hazardous residue must be shipped with all closures tightly in place, bearing all markings and labels as if the container were full of that material (49 CFR varying as well as conflicting regulations in the area of hazardous materials transportation." Senate Committee on Commerce, Report No. 93-1192, September 30, 1974.

In implementing this law, DOT has issued inconsistency rulings on hazard communications such as shipping documents, noting that,

Hazard warning systems are (an) area where MTB (DOT's Materials Transportation Bureau) perceives the Federal role to be exclusive. The MTB has thoroughly considered this subject and has issued regulations on marking and labeling of packages and placarding of vehicles in order to communicate the hazards of the materials contained therein. The effectiveness of these systems depends to a large degree on educating the public, especially emergency response personnel. In order to widely disseminate information on its systems, the MTB, among other things, conducts and supports educational programs and distributes informational literature. Additional, different requirements imposed by States or localities detract from the DOT systems and may confuse those to whom the DOT systems are meant to impart information.

(State of Rhode Island Rules & Regulations Governing the Transportation of Liquefied Natural Gas and Liquefied Propane Gas Intended to be Used by a Public Utility; Inconsistency Ruling, IR-2, 44 F.R. 75566, 75568, December 20, 1979.)

This view was reiterated in later DOT rulings, including IR-4 on a shipping paper developed by the State of Washington (47 Fed. Reg. 1231, Jan. 11, 1982), IR-6 on an ordinance in the city of Covington, Kentucky (48 Fed. Reg. 760, Jan. 6, 1983), and recently IR-16, pertaining to requirements imposed by the City of Tucson, Arizona (50 Fed. Reg. 20872, May 20, 1985).

the drum emptier, who is the only one who knows precisely what was in each drum.

This kind of detailed information simply is not helpful for drums that are empty. Under rules followed in all other jurisdictions, no manifest is necessary for an emptied drum. We urge that the proposed manifest requirement be not applied in California either.

If the purpose of this document only is to note that drums have been sent to a container recycling facility rather than to a disposal site, then a simple receipt system could be implemented to accomplish this end. We would not object to such a system, nor would it appear to run afoul of preemption questions.

What we suggest is a document prepared by the transporter or the emptier of the drums, describing them as regulated containers, and identifying the emptier and the receiving recycling facility. There is no need to describe the details of the former contents by shipping name, classification, identification numbers or the like, since this communication is primarily intended to show the points of origin and destination of the emptied drums. This could be accomplished by a receipt entry showing the number of drums. The description perhaps could include a reference to the DHS code with the phrase that these containers are regulated in California only.

If you do determine that a full hazardous waste manifest must be completed, then in accordance with the national and California rules on to the cost of operation of these recycling facilities. The costs inherent in compliance with the paperwork, and the costs of the financial assurance mechanism will increase the cost of business without substantial environmental benefits.

f. If financial assurance requirements are retained, then the rules on estimating closure costs should include consideration of the value of all "reconditionable" drums at the site. This would exclude those that have only scrap value. As noted in the workshop, drums that have been reconditioned are shipped almost immediately. The raw drums awaiting reconditioning are a readily marketable asset of the reconditioner and must be considered in accurate cost estimates. If there is concern with the inventory of raw drums, this could be addressed through requiring drums to be stacked with their bungs tightly in place, and aligned in a horizontal orientation.

Thank you for the opportunity to submit these comments. I would be pleased to respond to any questions you may have. NABADA remains ready to work with the DHS directly and through the California reconditioners, to develop rules that meet public needs and that also serve the public through preservation of this vital industry.

Sincerely,

Lawrence W. Bierlein
NABADA General Counsel
